Salute to Campbell

After spending nearly ten years as manager of Greenbelt's co-operative housing corporation, Paul Campbell is departing for a job that promises a new challenge for him. He is leaving well prepared. He is going to South America, where we understand the people are temperamental and tempers flare up quickly. Surely his long experience in Greenbelt will have fully equipped him to handle any contingency he may meet.

When Campbell reported to work in January, 1953, he arrived to find that the sale of this government-owned community to a mutual homeowners corporation had resulted in near civil war and that the smoke of battle had not yet cleared away. There had been some doubts about hiring this quiet, unassuming man on the grounds that a more aggressive, dynamic type was needed. However, his 14 years experience in handling community projects, including a cooperative housing project for burly coal miners in the Pittsburgh area, had spoken for itself, and he had been hired. That decision has never been regretted. Under his guiding hand since then, the unique cooperative housing project begun by enthusiastic but inexperienced residents progressed from confusion and controversy to a stable, efficient operation.

Actually, Campbell has been so self-effacing in carrying out his managerial responsibilities that his true contribution to establishing GHI as a going concern of permanent duration may never be known. Mistakes have been made for which Campbell might well have pointed his finger at others, but he has never done so. What is more important is that due to him such mistakes have never seriously damaged the corporation. Among the stories that will never be told are the cases of a number of GHI homeowners whose personal problems in relation to their homes have been uniformly treated sympathetically by Campbell and a reasonable solution found whenever possible.

Despite the long dragged-out controversies that have plagued him, notably the attempt to enforce the wishes of the vast majority of GHI homeowners that pets, especially dogs, should not be kept in GHI homes and the more recent elderly housing project issue, we are certain that Campbell is leaving Greenbelt with a strong measure of regret. His deep affection for Greenbelt was indicated by his decision to return here in 1959 after serving United Nations for 2½ years as director of a newly established housing project in Jamaica, British West Indies. Although he was given a leave of absence, no one would have blamed him if he had sought more rewarding work elsewhere.

We congratulate the Pan American Union in seeking out and employing our GHI manager. If they have urgent and difficult problems to handle, they can relax. "The Campbell is coming."

Police News Review

There were two reports of incidents on Laurel Hill this past week. One resident complained that rocks were being thrown at his house. A young boy, about nine or ten, was reported responsible. His parents were notified. Another resident reported the theft of items from her lawn.

Two new wheelbarrows were reported missing from the area where the old Co-op store is being torn down.

A resident reported the loss of about 500 sheets of specially printed paper which had been left in his auto.

A cat, reported as sick, was picked up by police in a yard on Gardenway and taken to the warehouse. The animal was found dead and its body disposed of.

A resident called to complain to police of bottles being tossed against the boiler room on Gardenway. The child responsible was made to clean up the debris by the officer answering the call.

A candy vending machine was stolen from the swimming pool and found in the vicinity of the Athletic club. Missing from the machine was the cash box with the money it contained.

A breaking and entering was reported from the Youth Center. Entry was made by breaking the keeper part of the door lock. Nothing was missing.

A resident reported an act of vandalism on Ridge last week. The woman had been watering her lawn and was called away. When she returned she found that someone had turned the hose into her house soaking the floor and rugs.

Three boys, ages ranging from five to nine, were considered responsible for the removal of a coin box with money from the Community Church. The box and money were found by another young boy and turned in to police.

A number of reports were received complaining of youths knocking out street lights. The city office advised persons to call PEPCO to have street lighting repaired.

Prowlers have been reported twice on Gardenway this past week. One resident complained that it was boys who were looking in the windows. The area was checked, but police could find no one.

Donna Evans Seeking "Miss Washington" Title

By Elaine Skolnik

Donna Jean Evans, 16-V Ridge, is one of nine finalists who will compete for the "Miss Washington" crown at Leows Capital Theatre in Washington on August 6. The winner will represent the nation's capital in the "Miss America" contest at Atlantic City in September.

Donna, a 5' 4" brown-haired, brown-eyed beauty, was selected a finalist at the Carter-Baron Amphitheatre on July 15. Wearing a red sheath dress, Donna sang a medley of songs, "It's All Right With Me," "From This Moment On," and "Just In Time." Contestants are not only expected to possess beauty, but are also judged on poise, talent, charm, and the ability to speak extemporaneously. Donna's answer to the question, "Do you believe in blind dates," was, "As long as it is a double-date."

Originally, there were 42 girls vying for the "Miss Washington" crown. The contest was sponsored by Station WWDC. Donna, who was eighteen in April, said, "The WWDC people interviewed the girls and gave all of us excellent guidance. They helped bring out our best qualities and talents."

For the past three years, Donna studied singing at Peabody Preparatory in Baltimore. She specializes in ballads and pop music. Donna has appeared on Ted Mack's TV program and was also a guest on Milt Grant's Record Hop. Last year, she won first place in the Beltsville Junior Chamber of Commerce Talent Contest.

Since her graduation in June from High Point, Donna has been kept very busy rehearsing and performing. She has this to say of her new experience, "I have enjoyed every moment. It has been exciting meeting so many people. The girls I'm competing against possess a great deal of talent and beauty. Working together has brought us close together in friendship. Right now, we're looking forward to the dress rehearsal on Leow's stage with full orchestration."

Life Saving Course

The Recreation Department is planning a Red Cross Senior Life Saving course for residents of Greenbelt and out of town subscribers to the family plan. No fee will be charged. All interested are urged to report to the pool on Wednesday, August 8, at 8:30 p.m.

LESS LITTER NOW

The new trash containers on posts in the center have been very effective, according to City Manager McDonald. It seems that children have been especially conscientious about using them.

New City Directory

The latest edition of the Greenbelt City Directory, to be placed on sale Monday evening, is the fourth sponsored by the Greenbelt Lions Club. Each succeeding edition has been the result of a serious attempt to make the Directory a bigger and more informative book for the people of Greenbelt. The accuracy of the listings has been the prime concern of the effort, as always. Unfortunately an early cut-off date (July 15th) was necessary to meet make-up and printing schedules. It is felt, however, that the 1962 edition will be extremely accurate.

For the past several years the proceeds from this publication have been contributed to the Youth Center Building Fund. This year they will go into the Activities Account of the Lions Club. Most of these monies will be used for the Eye Bank, Lighthouse for the Blind, boys' and girls' activities, glasses (including cataract glasses), wheelchairs, and various community services which the Club has supported from its inception.

The Lions Club of Greenbelt, now 53 members strong, hopes to have one of its biggest years for service to this community under its newly-elected King Lion, Roy Breashears. The Lions are sincerely grateful for the support the citizens of Greenbelt have always given to their effort to do a little more for those in need.

by Ray Hudson, Jr.

Friday - The League-leading Athletics, trying to hold on to their slim lead, met with the Lions. When everything was over, the Athletics had come up with another win. Roy Breashears Appointed As New Manager of GHI

by Joanne Philleo

Roy Breashears, currently serving as Assistant Manager and Comptroller of Greenbelt Homes, Inc., has been named by the Board of Directors to succeed Paul Campbell as Manager when the latter departs later this month. Although the action was taken at an executive session of the Board last Thursday, the news was announced by President Harry Zubkoff shortly afterwards.

Breashears is a native of Oklahoma and has a B. S. degree in Business from Oklahoma City University. He came to this area in 1950 as a graduate student in accounting at the University of Maryland. After working at O. P. A. he came to GHI in March, 1953, as Accountant and became Comptroller of that organization in the fall of 1954. He was Assistant Manager under John O. Walker and held the post of Acting Manager during Walker's absence due to illness.

He lives at 6-E Ridge with his wife Vera and their two children, Jim, 8, and Sue, 3. The Lion's Club has elected him president of that organization and he serves as treasurer of the Greenbelt Community Church. His main hobby is fishing.

New Police Procedures For Juvenile Offenders

At an Executive Session of the Greenbelt City Council on Monday, July 30, the subject of recent acts of vandalism and disorderly conduct on the part of a few youths in the community was discussed. At the conclusion of the session, the City Manager and Acting Police Chief was directed to pursue the offenses of this nature more vigorously than has been recent habit. The efforts are directed toward greater pressure on the parents and the need of closer supervision of their teenagers.

Hereafter, any juvenile that has been released to his parents at the Greenbelt Police Office on more than one occasion will be taken to either the County Police Department at Hyattsville or Seat Pleasant, and the parents will be required to go to those stations to sign releases for the offenders.
